Anything done in National forests, parks, public land, etc. is being done on MY property - it's the property of the United States & it's citizens (that's me). I deserve the right to know how the government is proposing to destroy our environment & comment on it prior to it being destroyed. More Americans than the government may realize are concerned about the environment, concerned about the toxins used around their homes and work spaces. Homeland Security is supposed to protect us from weapons of mass destruction, then protect us from global warming, mercury and other deadly toxins in our air, soil & water as well. This is our homeland & we all deserve the right to comment on how it is run & how the little reamaining wild land is used.

Sincerely,

Melissa Gillund
